Uplink – *1.5Mbps

Downlink – *4Mbps

*. Due to the inherent nature of wireless technologies, the actual user experience may vary from the stated average network speeds. This variation can be attributed to factors such as radio conditions, geographical features, distance, path loss, time of use (peak or off-peak), spectrum capabilities, network configurations, the device used, and external influences. Additionally, the network deployment decisions are influenced by the operator's business viability considerations.
